As the Browns wind down another five-win season, rumors run rampant concerning the team's next head coach and general manager.

One of those rumors has NFL Network sportscaster Mike Lombardi coming to the team as general manager, director of personnel, or some such title that would put him directly in charge of the annual college draft.

This particular rumor has evoked a wide range of criticism from long-time Browns fans and local sportswriters and sportscasters. For those readers who weren't around during Lombardi's first go-round with the team (1992-1996 director of player personnel; 1987-1991 pro personnel director), we offer a chart listing all of the college draft picks for which he was responsible (1992-1996). Few are memorable.
