Draft day is finally here. All the endless talk around the watercooler and on message boards debating who the Browns should take ends today around 1:00 pm. We gathered up a few of TheClevelandFan.com writers to get their final thoughts and offer their predictions of what they see happening with the Browns on the first day of the draft.

[redacted]