The Indians finish a six-game road trip through the A.L. East by going 3-3, and last night's early offensive explosion offset the late-game pitching histrionics with room (4 runs' worth) to spare. In today's B-List, Buff considers the extra-base-osity of quasi-Ace Josh Tomlin, the power of Mighty Asdrubal Cabrera and the rest of the lads, and wonders if everyone, including the players trying to catch the balls, had one eye on the Stanley Cup opener.

Put it this way: had Roberto Luongo or Tim Thomas tended goal like these two played defense, it would not have been a 1-0 game.

FINAL

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

R

H

E

Indians (33-20)

4

0

8

0

0

1

0

0

0

13

18

2

Blue Jays (28-28)

0

0

0

0

3

3

1

0

2

9

11

2

[redacted]