
This is one installment in a team effort by The Cleveland Fan, highlighting the top local sports figures by jersey number. Please weigh in with your thoughts- click on the Boards link above. And as David Letterman would say, "This is for entertainment purposes only; please, no wagering."

The sports radio host was laughing. That seemed obvious enough, although for the moment the broadcast hung in dead silence. Eventually, he could be heard banging his hand on the table before he noisily inhaled and the guffaws began in earnest.

Those crazy Cleveland Cavaliers!

After all, by the mid 1990s, the glory days of Nance, Price, and Daugherty could only be viewed through the rear view mirror. They needed some players. They
